4-H'ERS BRING ANIMALS TO WORK FOR SHOW AND TELL

County of Morris

A speckled white rabbit, a pair of chickens and two guinea pigs accompanied a half-dozen Morris County 4-H Club members to a recent Morris County Commissioners Work Session, where the youth shared their experiences in the 4-H program.

By all accounts, the animals stole the show, starting with 4-H Club member Khloe Terrazas lifting Luna the Lionhead rabbit out of her carrying case. After introductions, Khloe held the leash as Luna hopped around the room, delighting commissioners and greeting attendees gathered in the Knox Meeting Room.

The annual Morris County 4-H Fair, held in July, showcased the work, knowledge and skills developed by the county's 4-H youth members. The 2026 fair, held at High View Farms, featured animal displays, hands-on activities, entertainment and other traditional country fair attractions.

During the 2025-26 program year, more than 240 youth participated in 25 Morris County 4-H clubs, supported by more than 80 volunteers. In addition to clubs, the 4-H program offers multi-session events and stand-alone workshops that are open to all. Youth in kindergarten through one year out of high school are eligible to attend.

"Many people are familiar with 4-H 's animal science and agriculture background but we also participate in many project areas such as STEM, creative arts, hobbies and more," said club member Raima Bera. "Through these clubs, members develop important life skills such as communication, leadership, teamwork and care for their communities."

4-H Clubs are free and open to youth in kindergarten through one year out of high school. The program is part of Rutgers Cooperative Extension, the university's outreach arm to the community and a collaboration with the New Jersey Department of Agriculture. The organization's goal is to help distinct populations statewide to adapt to a rapidly changing society, improve lives and nourish communities through educational programs that are based in science. Learn more about Morris County 4-H at morris4h.org/home.

GRACE SQUARE FOOT GARDEN PROGRAM

Junior League of Summit

Reeves-Reed Arboretum has received a $3,970 grant from the Junior League of Summit to expand the Square Foot Garden initiative at GRACE, a Summit-based nonprofit serving individuals and families experiencing food insecurity.

The Square Foot Garden program is a collaborative effort between Reeves-Reed Arboretum and GRACE, combining food production, community volunteerism, and gardening education to support local families in need. The grant will help double the number of vegetables grown in the garden, increasing access to fresh, nutritious produce while expanding educational opportunities for participants.

"We are deeply grateful to the Junior League of Summit for supporting this important initiative," said Althea Llewellyn, Reeves-Reed Arboretum's Director of Education. "The Square Foot Garden program provides fresh produce to local families while teaching community members practical gardening skills they can use at home."

Funding from the grant will support the expansion of garden production and educational programming at the GRACE garden site. Project objectives include:

- Cleaning and preparing two additional square foot garden beds with the help of local Summit elementary school scouts, parents, and community volunteers.
- Planting and harvesting multiple crops throughout the growing season, including tomatoes, radishes, garlic, lettuce, cilantro, herbs, and other fast-growing vegetables.
- Conducting 16 educational workshops, each approximately 15 minutes in length, focused on teaching participants how to grow vegetables from seedlings at home.
- Providing free vegetable seedlings to workshop participants interested in starting their own gardens.

Based on projected garden yields and produce donations, Reeves-Reed Arboretum estimates that between 1,000 and 1,500 individuals will benefit from fresh vegetables and herbs harvested through the program. Beyond providing nutritious food, the initiative encourages self-sufficiency by teaching participants how to grow vegetables at home while fostering healthy eating habits and greater awareness of sustainable food systems.

The project also engages local volunteers, including youth and families, in meaningful community service while building stronger community connections and increasing awareness of local food insecurity.

Through partnerships such as this, Reeves-Reed Arboretum continues to connect people with nature while strengthening community food access, environmental stewardship, and hands-on learning opportunities for residents of all ages.

VETERANS, COMMUNITY PARTNERS GATHER TO STRENGTHEN SUPPORT

County of Morris

More than 60 veterans, service providers and community organization representatives recently gathered at the Morris County Veterans Services Office in Morris Township for another successful New Jersey SOS Veterans Stakeholders meeting, focused on strengthening collaboration and support for the diverse needs of the veteran community.

The meeting brought together representatives from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, the New Jersey Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, the VA New Jersey Health Care System, the County College of Morris Veterans Resource Center and numerous veteran-focused organizations, including Atlantic Health System's True North Program, American Red Cross, Catholic Charities Diocese of Paterson, Community Hope, Fairleigh Dickinson University and Morris Habitat for Humanity. Local veterans' organizations, including Morris Plains VFW Post 3401, Randolph VFW Post 7333 and Welcome Home Vets of New Jersey, also participated.

NJ SOS Veterans Stakeholders Co-founder Ariel "AJ" Luna, a U.S. Army veteran of Operation Iraqi Freedom, announced that the "Remembering Our Fallen Moving Wall" exhibit will be to the County College of Morris Sept. 24-27, 2026. The exhibit, being displayed during the 25th anniversary of the start of the Global War on Terror, honors those who made the ultimate sacrifice while offering support to servicemembers suffering from the physical and emotional traumas brought about by the war.

The stakeholders meeting also featured updates from Christine Hellyer, director of the Morris County Office of Aging, Disabilities, and Community Programming, and Jessica Tomalo, program coordinator for the Office of Veterans Services, who highlighted ongoing efforts to expand outreach and awareness of available veteran services.

Assemblywoman Aura Dunn attended, thanking veterans for their service and recognizing the organizations that continue to support them. Representatives from the offices of U.S. Reps. Tom Kean, Jr., Analilia Mejia, and Sen. Andy Kim also participated.

MORRIS COUNTY CORRECTIONS GRADUATION

Morris County

Sheriff James M. Gannon and the Morris County Correctional Facility Administration team proudly congratulate the members of County Corrections Police Officer Class 25-3 for their graduation from the Essex County Police Academy.

The class of ten recruits began their academy training on December 12, 2025, at the Essex County BCCCPO program. After 19 weeks of intensive academy training, which included physical conditioning, classroom instruction, unarmed defense, first responder and CPR certification, firearms training, and other specialized coursework, the recruits successfully completed the program and graduated on Wednesday, April 22, 2026.

The newly graduated County Correctional Police Officers are: Vincent Barba (Firearms Award), Cameron Bascomb, Keegan Carvajal, John Coleman, Corey Dempster, Kenny Elysee, Shaquille Gould, Jacob Nelson, Destiny Neuberger, and David VanWinkle

The graduation ceremony was held at the historic St. Lucy's Church in Newark. This backdrop provided a meaningful and memorable setting for families, friends, and academy staff to honor the dedication and achievements of the new officers.

Best of luck, God bless, and congratulations to Morris County's newest Correctional Police Officers as they begin their careers in service for the people of Morris County.

Paintings of the American Revolution (ON ZOOM)

Tuesday, August 4th @ 7:00pm

We all know the story of the Revolutionary War, but how much of our understanding is colored by the way the war was depicted by artists? Paintings of the American Revolution have been essential in the way that the war was understood, both at the time of the conflict and for generations after. This lecture will explore well-known paintings such as Emanuel Leutze's Washington Crossing the Delaware, John Trumbull's Declaration of Independence, and Asher Durand's The Capture of Major André. Mallory Mortillaro is an art historian and educator. As a researcher, she consults for private collectors, museums, and organizations in the New York metropolitan area, with a primary focus on provenance research.

GEORGE BURROUGHS SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

Thursday Morning Club

The Thursday Morning Club is proud to announce the recipients of the 2026 Thursday Morning Club/Madison Community House – George Burroughs Scholarship. The scholarship, which is awarded annually to High School seniors who reside in Madison, recognizes students who have demonstrated an outstanding commitment to volunteerism and community service.

This year, three Madison High School students were selected to receive the scholarship and were recognized at the Annual Madison High School Awards Ceremony held on June 4, 2026.

The 2026 George Burroughs Scholarship recipients are: Alexandra Porio, Rebecca Axler, and Modi Shi

Named in honor of George Burroughs, a dedicated community volunteer whose legacy of service continues to inspire others, the scholarship is awarded to students who embody the values of volunteerism, leadership, and civic engagement. "The George Burroughs Scholarship celebrates students who understand the value of giving back," said Olga Soriano, Thursday Morning Club President. "We are proud to recognize Alexandra, Rebecca, and Modi for their commitment to service and look forward to seeing the positive impact they will continue to make in their communities."

Although each student volunteered in different settings, they shared a common outcome: developing self-confidence, strengthening leadership skills, building meaningful relationships, and contributing positively to their community. These experiences have prepared them well for their future endeavors and will serve them throughout their college years and beyond.
